

★ Being a column in which the publisher just "blows off the steam" . . .
By JUNE JONES

TRUMAN NIX, new head coach at Hamlin High School, was admiring the precision exercises and nimble demonstrations put on at the Tuesday noon luncheon of Hamlin Lions Club at the oil mill guest house.

When Jess Parrish, band director, who was in charge of the presentation, explained that the twirlers had been practicing for two months, Coach Nix declared that he was going to turn a bunch of his football hopefuls over to the band director for work-outs in order to take some of the stiffness and kinks out of his boys.

★ VOCABULARIES are wonderful things, we have discovered, but despite our study of Webster, some of our definitions are not as modern as these:

BACHELOR: A man who has a leaning toward the fair sex but not enough to make him fall.

SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE: A marriage in which the husband is as patient with his wife as he is with his golf game.

MIDDLE AGE: The time when most men are in the market for a new pair of swimming trunks.

HUSBAND: A man who wishes he had as much fun when he is out as his wife thinks he does.

SCREEN DOOR: What the kids get a bang out of.

★ THIS MATTER of pants provides space filling material for this column of sense and nonsense . . .

Pants are made for men and not for women.

Women are made for men and not for pants.

When a man pants for a woman, and a woman pants for a man, they are a pair of pants.

Such pants do not always last and they are called breeches of promise.

This often turns into a suit.

★ A STAMFORD MAN complained that everything he did seemed to be wrong, so the man, in all his desolation, decided to end it all by hanging himself from a tree.

Before he jumped, he decided to explain to the Lord the reason for his action and raising his head, he poured out the anguish of his soul. Just then a bird flew over and beautifully decorated the eye of his upturned face.

"You see, Lord," said the poor soul, "that's what I mean. For other people they sing!"

★ EVERY NOW AND THEN The Herald continues to receive anonymous letters of one kind and another. A good portion of them are stable, constructive words about this subject or that. Most of them would make good reading, and The Herald would be glad to print them.

But, the thing that keeps us from printing them, or excerpts from them, is the fact that they come unsigned. Our rule, and that of every other newspaper of reputable background we know of, is that the source of an article is necessary.

A newspaper is responsible for everything that it prints. Its readers so much as sign every sentence. For others to do less by sending unsigned articles to the paper is unethical and unfair to the publishers. We like to know to whom we talk over the telephone and with whom we correspond.

A letter we received this week deserves publication. It concerns the vital subject of town loyalty and home patronage—but because it is unsigned, we cannot use it. If the author will come by and sign his name (even though we probably will not use it in publishing the article) we will appreciate it.

★ AN AMERICAN and a Russian soldier faced one another across the barriers of East and West Berlin. In time they fell into an argument.

"In my country," said the American, "I can go to the door of the White House and ring the bell and say just what I think of Eisenhower."

"Well," said the Russian, with the Russian equivalent of "so what?" "In my country I can go to the gate of the Kremlin and ring the bell and say just what I think of Eisenhower!"

First Bale of 1955 Cotton Brought into Hamlin Monday

R. J. Waddle Picks 590-Pound Bale From 13 Acres

Hamlin first bale of 1955 bale of cotton—which also was the first for Jones County as far as The Herald could learn—came in to town Monday. This August 15 first bale was one day earlier than last year's initial bale.

R. J. Waddle, farming six miles southeast of Hamlin (in the bend of the recently straightened highway section) harvested the first bale of the new season.

The ginned bale, which was a whopper of 590 pounds, was processed from 2,270 pounds of seed cotton, also produced 1,030 pounds of cottonseed. The cotton was picked from 13 acres by a crew that went into the field early Monday morning.

The bale was ginned by the Hamlin Farmers Cooperative Gin without charge, of which Watts Fletcher is manager. The gin also paid a premium for the first bale of cotton, paying 35 cents per pound, which is two and one-half cents more than the current cotton price.

A $50 cash premium also was

COTTON PICTURE BEING CHANGED BY MEXICO

Most of us in this cotton producing section of the United States have been prone to think that we had only over-production and under-consumption to worry about within our own continental boundaries, but the picture is fast changing, a review of facts and figures will soon convince us.

Burris Jackson, chairman of the American Cotton Congress, declared recently that, "Cotton price support laws would be changed overnight if Congress could get a look at huge expansion of Mexican irrigated cotton acreage directly across the Rio Grande from Texas. Our silly price supports have given an umbrella under which Matamoros, Mexico, production has developed from almost nothing to a million acres in less than 10 years. The Senate and House committees on agriculture ought to see for themselves what delegates to the cotton convention in McAllen have seen in Mexico."

Mounting sentiment for revision of price support laws are being felt all over the Cotton Belt, and this feeling had its reflection in the assertions that reduced U. S. acreage prevents production efficiency. Mexican growers produce in volume for around 15 cents per pound, pay six cents per bale export tax and still outcompete 31c and higher U. S. cotton.

Real need for supports of some sort was recognized clearly by the cotton group. Most delegates leaned toward indirect payments, such as for improving soil fertility, rather than to direct commodity-by-commodity payments. Two-price plans found little favor; fear was that they would bring swift reprisal from foreign governments of cotton growing countries. The cotton group agreed generally that elimination of fast tax write-offs, tariffs and other subsidies to business could ease the need for farm subsidies.

U. S. cotton use has expanded 50 per cent in the past 15 years, yet has barely held its 70 per cent share of the market as rayon and synthetics have developed. W. Rhea Blake of the National Cotton Council told the delegates. Quality, promotion and price all have figured in cotton's relative position, he said, and outlined a long-term proposal to double government farm product research as a way to offset the five-to-one dollar advantage industry holds over agriculture in such investigations.

Roadside Park at Tuxedo

Hamlin city officials recently have made overtures to the Texas Highway Department in a move to secure a roadside park for Highway 92 between Hamlin and Stamford. And the suggestion has been received with interest from area highway leaders.

Reason for the city's interest in the proposed civic unit is that water to improve such a spot has been offered by the city. The big water main from Point Creek Lake to Hamlin parallels the highway most of the way between the two cities, and tapping the line would be a simple matter.

Following the original suggestion several weeks ago, highway officials indicated that a practical location for such a roadside park would be at Tuxedo, where the new Hanna-to-Rule farm-to-market highway intersects Highway 92.

Community leaders at Tuxedo have promised Mayor Willard Jones their cooperation in trying to arrange for space for the park. An acre or two of ground could be developed into a combination community and roadside park, it is pointed out.

There's No Substitute

Four centuries ago the Natchez Indians of North America would club together to purchase favorable weather for their crops from their tribal wizard. Their offerings of gifts he would gracefully accept, and then would perform queer antics that guaranteed to please the most critical—but frequently would not produce the desired favorable weather.

If rain was needed, the wizard would fast and dance with a pipe in his mouth filled with water. The pipe was perforated like the nozzle of a watering can, and through the holes the rain-maker would blow the water toward that part of the sky where the clouds hung heaviest. But, if fair weather was wanted, he would mount the roof of his hut and with extended arms and blowing with all his might, he would chase the clouds away. If the performance failed, he promptly put the finger on some wretched tribesman, accusing him of conduct unbecoming a true Natchez.

We have "rain makers" today. Whenever things go a little askew, we turn to them with our burnt offerings. It would seem that some of us never grow old enough to realize that the old virtues are the best. They have stood the test of time. We rack our brains to find a substitute for hard work when we know there is none. Everywhere we look, whether in private or public life, in somebody else's or in our own affairs, the conclusion is the same. Hard work is the formula for success—it is as simple as that!

The Life of a Pig

A pig originally rustled for his food and shelter in the wilds. Then he was seduced with "free" meals to fatten him, and his life and freedom were forfeited for board and room. The wild pig had a future, but only one end awaited his cared-for brother.

Man has a brain to choose freedom, but history is a sad record of results under socialism to which he has often succumbed. This course has led to servitude and subjugation. Man found lost freedom the price of false security.

There is no short-cut to a fruitful life. Man can delegate a few duties to government, but to maintain his liberty he must not submit to government for subsistence.

Editorial of the Week

GROWING PROBLEM OF AGED

Every day approximately 3,000 more people reach their sixty-fifth birthday. The total is about 42 per cent of the 75,000 births now being recorded daily in the United States. Already there are more than 14,000,000 "senior citizens" in the country and by 1970 it is estimated that their number will exceed 21,000,000, comprising 12 per cent of the population.

The increase in the proportion of older people to the total population is being accompanied by a number of general economic and social problems, but they are no more important than what is happening to those who have been granted extra years of life beyond normal expectancy.

Senator Wiley of Wisconsin pictures the background facts which too many of the nation's older people are facing today: Decreasing income when living costs remain high, job openings for only one out of seven, less adequate housing in homes and institutions than for other age groups, limited recreation opportunities, and the lack of research and adult education directed to the problems of older persons.

"Our government has demonstrated its concern with the special problems of labor, of industry and of the farmers by creating special departments. We have a federal agency to assist small business men," Senator Wiley declared. "We have a woman's bureau concerned exclusively with the special problems of women in our society. We have a children's bureau which has done an admirable job of assisting state and local communities with the special problems of their children . . . but we have failed so far to recognize that we have an equally important stake in preserving the well-being and usefulness of our senior citizens.—The San Angelo Standard-Times.

New Fire Hose Purchased for Hamlin, Council Orders Cleaning of Air Field

Purchase of 1,700 feet of two and one-half inch fire hose and 700 feet of one and one-half inch hose highlighted the monthly business meeting of the Hamlin City Council Tuesday night. Ten bids on the hose were filed for the meeting. Contract was given the Bi-Lateral Hose Company.

Most of the new hose will be placed on the big new fire truck which was purchased for the city in June. Immediate delivery on 800 feet to replace recently damaged hose was promised.

The council approved improvements at the Hamlin airport north of the city, which had been requested by several oil concerns who wanted to fly in company officials, and other parties. City equipment will be used to clear and level runways which have been permitted to deteriorate. City Engineer Roy Dunlap will supervise the work.

An amended ordinance governing rates for "luxury services" for users of general telephones was approved. Standardization of charges on a national scale was asked by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Nazarene Bible School Commencement Set

Commencement exercises for the vacation Bible school that has been underway at the Hamlin Church of the Nazarene will be conducted this (Friday) evening beginning at 7:30 o'clock, according to the pastor, Rev. Donald Wellman.

Resignation of Councilman Delma Shelburne, who is moving to Snyder, was accepted by the city business group. His term expires in April, 1957. An election to name a successor was ordered for September 13.

Mayor Willard Jones was authorized to start negotiations for sale of water from the city's sewer disposal plant as water for land irrigation.

Bond of F. C. Ivy, plumber, was approved. He has recently moved to Hamlin from Stamford.

Educational Director For Baptists Arriving

Ed Wiggins, a senior at Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene, will assume Sunday his position as music and educational director at the Hamlin First Baptist Church, according to Rev. Houston Walker, pastor. Mrs. Wiggins will be full-time church secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins and their year-old daughter will occupy an apartment in the Reynolds apartments northeast of the church. He has been music director at the First Baptist Church in Coleman. She has an AB degree from HSU, and he is working on his degree in religious education.

Ex-Comanche County Residents to Gather

Residents of the Hamlin area who are former residents of Comanche County are advised that the annual Comanche County reunion will be held at Maskenzie State Park in Lubbock Sunday, August 28.

Everyone is invited to come and bring a basket lunch, according to J. S. Seiter, president of the Comanche County ex-residents of this area.

This summer the well-dressed businessman won't have to suffer in the summer heat. He can be both comfortable and well-dressed in the new cotton suits that are due for popularity in menswear fashions. This young executive wears a grey business suit by Gordon of Philadelphia in Reeves Facility cotton cord, a style that features the "natural" look. His Superba plaid tie is in M. & W. Thomas cotton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lain were hosts at a birthday party for their nephew, Charles Glazner of Anson, on his fifteenth birthday at their home south of Hamlin last Wednesday evening.

Broiled hamburgers and all the trimmings were served to the attendants, which included Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Glazner and children of Anson, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lain and children and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lain and son. Cake and ice cream topped the menu.

It wasn't for pretzels some men would live on a liquid diet.

Twirlers of Hamlin Band Perform at Lions Club Session

Members and guests of the Hamlin Lions Club were given a preview of what is to come on the football field during the coming season when the group met Tuesday at noon at the oil mill guest house.

The preview did not involve the bruising bulk of tackles and full-backs but the nimble exercises of three pretty band twirlers, who gave group and individual baton twirling acts to the accompaniment of recorded band music. Jess Parrish, director of the Hamlin High School Band, presented the group.

The performers were Reba Roland, Janis Crowley and Anne Cochran, each of whom, Parrish explained, was an accomplished musician before she was named to the honorary place of twirler.

Ed Croan, new manager of the Winn Variety Store, was installed as a new member of the Lions Club. J. R. Hutchinson officiated at the installation rites.

Besides the girls, other guests at the Tuesday luncheon included 10 bookkeepers of the Hamlin area girls who are attending a special school being conducted at the oil mill this week, and their three instructors; also E. N. Watkins and John L. LaRue of Dallas; and Jim Herridge, new football coach at Hamlin High School.

Parrishes Return from Band Group Confabs

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Parrish returned last week from Columbus, Ohio, where they attended the annual convention of the Tau Beta Sigma sorority and Kappa Kappa Psi fraternity, honorary band organizations. Sessions were held at the University of Ohio.

Mrs. Parrish was president of the sorority, and presided at sessions of the group, which were held August 4 through 7.

Feature of the meeting, they reported was the appearance of a 120-piece national intercollegiate band under direction of Frederick Fennell of the Eastman School of Music of Rochester, New York.

Athletics Promising At DePriest School

Promising athletic prospects at DePriest Colored School, which opened Monday, loom for the ensuing session, reports E. S. Morgan, principal.

With the coming this year of 15 high school students from Rotan, impetus will be given the program for both boys and girls in basketball. Plans for playing football this year at DePriest have been abandoned due to the recess for cotton picking.

Roosevelt Jones, a new instructor at DePriest, will coach the boys, and Morgan will direct the girls.

Three Hamlin Women Make Mexico Tour

Lola Milstead, Louise Proctor and Elsie Withers returned Monday from a two-week tour of Old Mexico. The three drove to San Antonio where they joined a tour party of 72 passengers for the trip across the border.

The trio reported an entertaining and interesting tour that included visits to numerous temples, the pyramids, luscious fruit country, silver mines, etc.

Food was excellent, and the service to the party was superb, they reported. "Needless to say, we had a wonderful time," was the way they summed up their trip.

Improvements at Camp Fire Girls' Hut Given Approval

Extended improvements at the Camp Fire Girls hut in West Hamlin were planned when the board of directors of the Hamlin Camp Fire Association met with President C. L. Howard in a special session last Thursday afternoon at the Lone Star Gas Company office.

The program of improvements will be made soon to facilitate the work of the Camp Fire Girls unit. Contract for the plumbing installation was awarded to H. O. Griffith on his low bid. Including in the improvements will be installation of a commode, sink, hot water heater and several minor additions.

The improvements are made possible by the retention of most of the funds collected in campaigns for donations by the local unit.

Attending the board meeting were Mrs. Ernest Jenkins, Mrs. William Seals, Mrs. Willard Maberry, Mrs. Delbert Rountree, Mrs. Arlie Cassle, Mrs. James Fitzgerald, Jake Lawson and C. L. Howard.

Parker May Tells Rotarians of Work In Information Unit

Four former students of Hamlin High School who attended when veteran C. G. Green was superintendent, were special visitors at the Wednesday noon luncheon of Hamlin Rotary Club at the oil mill guest house. They were Reavis Robinson of Hamlin, Carroll Benson of Merkel, Truett May of Salinas, California, and Parker May of Falls Church, Virginia.

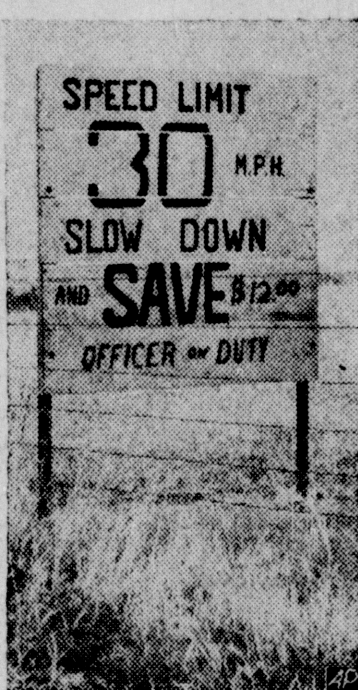

Parker May, who is connected with the U. S. Office of Information, a government agency disseminating information about the American way of life, spoke about his work as the program feature.

Purpose of his agency is to tell the world about U. S. policies, counter communist propaganda, show the U. S. mutuality and give aspects of our life and culture, May declared. He pointed to some departments of his agency such as the Voice of America, which broadcasts by radio the truth about America in 38 foreign languages; an international press service which provides daily news files of government news to embassies and other government posts in foreign countries; motion picture service, which makes available films about America in other countries, including foreign language sound; book services, libraries, and English language schools.

Besides those already named, other guests at the Wednesday luncheon included Martha O'Neal and G. W. Drummond of Hamlin, Jo Ann Adamson of New Home, Bill Smith of Olton, Dan Walker of Levelland, A. K. McCarty of Colorado City, J. D. Martin of Rotan, R. R. Terry of Lorraine, who are attending a gin bookkeeping school at the oil mill; Charles McCall of Rotan, Bruno Schroeder and Jack Hines of Houston and Eddie Hickson of Hamlin, instructors in the school; R. E. Hall, Charles R. Hewett, H. Dale Tebay, Billy L. McCaulley, Roy Duke and Ed Galis of Stamford; J. C. Hunter Jr., George Wenninger, Paul McCarty, Ed Stewart Jr., Eddie Swaim, Dan Parrish, Bill Ledbetter and Bill Scott of Abilene; Truett May of Washington, D. C.; and Ted Russell of Hamlin.

FIRST BALE

given to Waddle by the Hamlin Chamber of Commerce.

Last year's first bale of cotton was brought to Hamlin by J. A. Harden and Dave Chappel on August 16. The 1953 first bale was brought in by Hollis W. Madden on September 4. The first bale in 1952 was gathered by W. T. Madden on August 16.

Incidentally, there is quite a bit of early cotton opening in the Hamlin section, and several other bales of cotton are expected to be ginned within the next two weeks, according to local ginners.

Since the initial bale of the season, two more bales have been ginned at Hamlin. Waddle got a second bale, and W. C. Eoff, living a mile west of Waddle, brought in a bale.

Born to Cooper, in East Texas, September 10, 1894, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Redus. He married Donnie Dean June 6, 1918, at Roby.

Besides farming in the area, he also was an employee of General Crude Oil Company at Hamlin.

Interment was in the Hamlin East Cemetery, under direction of Hamlin Funeral Home. Pallbearers were Tarlton Willingham, Raleigh Reynolds, Grady Brown, Bill Smith, Fred Hulsey and C. D. Jones.

Outstanding Cattlemen Will Be Judges For Hereford Fort Worth Feeder Show

Four of the six judges for the Hereford feeder calf show to be held at the market at Fort Worth, September 16 have been named. They are Ted Gault, special market reporter for The Herald, in weekly column; the release attorney; One of them, Kirk Edwards, of Henetta in Clay County, showed the champion load of feeders at the Denver show a few days ago.

Other who have accepted bids to judge the show were on hand at the first show at the market in June, and the speed with which these ranchmen sorted out the winners is still the talk of the cattle trade at Fort Worth. Numerous cattlemen told this writer that judges at that event did the best job they ever saw. We agree. With six judges, there will be no judges. Others already named include Jack Idol, bossman of the League Ranches at Benjamin in Knox County; Ferd Slocum, Cresson rancher, whose country lies near where Johnson, Tarrant and Parker Counties corner together; and Quincy Corbett Jr. of Breckinridge in Stephens County, youthful rancher whose father, the late Quincy Corbett Sr., was one of Texas' most prominent cattlemen.

Secretary Henry Elder reports that he received bids from not even heard from, but says that all will be ranchmen of long experience. Much interest in the show and sale is being exhibited by cattlemen all over the Southwest, and many out-of-state consignments are expected in the show and sale.

Packers again showed little liking for the fat cows at Fort Worth Monday, but boning type cattle were strong including canner and butter cows. Bulls held steady. Slaughter calves and stocker and feeder cattle and calves ruled steady.

Comparative prices: Medium to good slaughter steers and yearlings brought $16 to $20; choice quotable, $22 to $23; commoner kinds, $10 to $15; fat cows, $10.50 to $12; canners and cutters, $7 to $10.50; bulls, $10 to $13.75; slaughter calves, good and choice, $16 to $19; common and medium, $12 to $14; culls, 9 to $11. Stocker steer calves were $20.50 down; steer yearlings, $18.50 down; stocker cows, $8 to $11.

Bumper crops of feed being produced in most sections of the country portend livestock feeding operations in the next few months. Concentration will be on hogs and cattle, with heavy poultry operations likely also.

U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington is reported highly concerned over the whole price support program. Seems that last year only about 35 percent of the corn crop went into the program. About the same figure appears destined to be sealed this year.

They say that at least 45 to 50 percent should be in the program or it cannot work. It is a case of the tail trying to wag the dog when such a small percent of the producers cooperate in the loan and support program.

Situation is aggravated by huge barley, oats and grain sorghum crops. Soy beans are in excessive supply and the last estimate on cotton indicated more protein there than anticipated.

Professional feeders, who buy everything, are expected to slow operations if the situation remains the same. However, farmers with feed stuffs are expected to market it as meat or poultry.

Corn Belt reports oats selling at 50 cents, and predicts $1 or cheaper corn in liberal supply. Grain sorghums are now selling around $1.50 and may go lower. We heard about 500 tons laid down near Fort Worth at $1.62½ this week.

Demand for feeders should be tremendous as fall progresses.

Top hogs scored $17.90 at Fort Worth Monday. This was 50 cents higher despite pressure on swine prices reported at northern markets. Good and choice butchers sold for $17.25 to $17.50; sows drew $12 to $15. Underweight hogs failed to share the better market and closed $1 or more off.

Good and choice fat spring lambs topped at $18 to $19.50 at Fort Worth Monday. Medium and lower grades sold around $12 to $17. Feeder lambs cashed at

VETERAN QUESTIONS

The questions and answers below about veteran problems are carried as a service to present and former service connected personnel by The Herald. Material for this column is supplied by the area office of the Veterans Administration at Lubbock.

Question.—A friend of mine on VA's pension rolls is entitled to an additional amount of money because he is so helpless that he requires constant aid and attention. Will he receive his additional allowance even though his mother provides this aid?

Answer.—Yes. He may receive the additional allowance even though a member of his family provides the necessary services. It is not necessary for him to hire an attendant in order to qualify for the payments.

Q.—I understand that if a veteran breaks two appointments for VA out-patient medical treatment he will not be entitled to further treatment. I broke two appointments, but each time I gave VA at least two days' notice. Will I be barred from further treatment?

A.—Since you gave VA at least 24 hours' advance notice, you will not be barred from further treatment. The bar applies only when veterans break appointment without prior notice, and without good reason for doing so.

Q.—I am going to school less than half time under the Korean GI bill. At what rate am I using up my GI training entitlement?

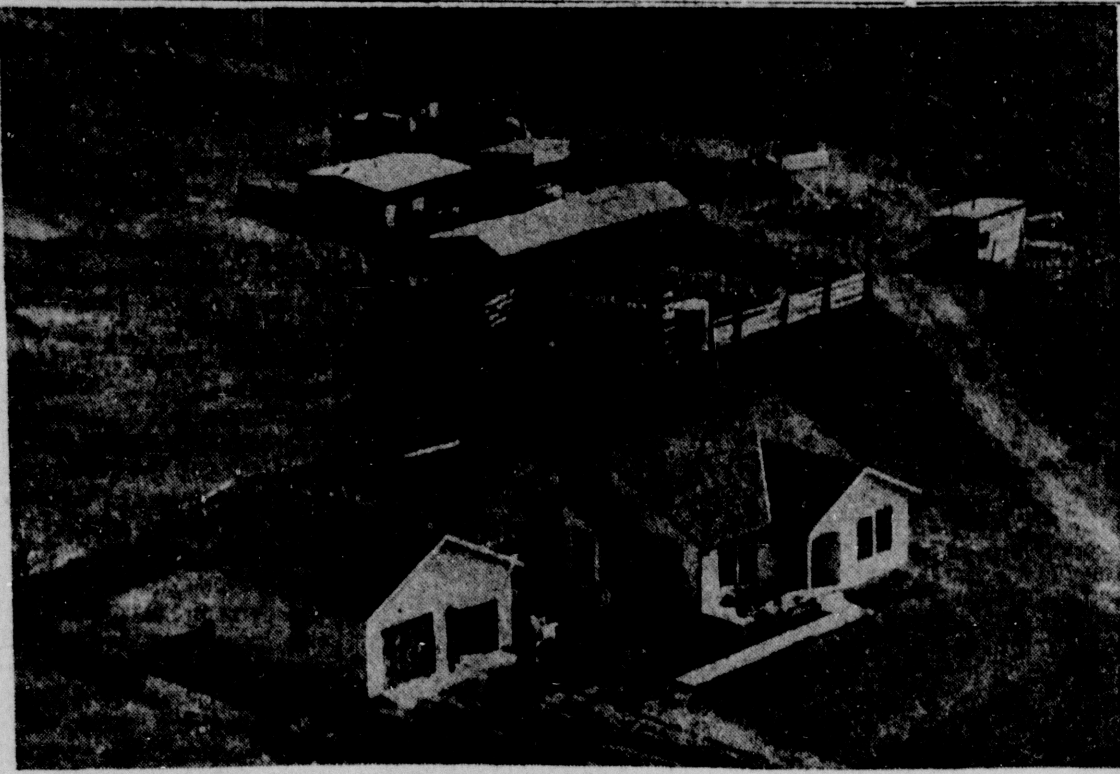

A.—VA considers that you are using your GI training entitlement at quarter time rate. For example, if your course lasts for a year, you will have used up one-quarter of a year's entitlement or three months.

Q.—I applied for disability compensation a couple of years ago. VA asked me to report for a physical examination, but I let the entire matter drop. Now I would like to follow through. What should I do?

A.—You must file a new application, since VA has considered that you have abandoned your original claim. Should your new claim be approved, payments may begin as of the date of the new application—not the old one.

Q.—I heard the other day about a fellow whose doctor advised him to cut his drinking in half—so he eliminated the chasers.

A.—This is a joke. Old ewes sold for $4 to $5.50; old wethers drew $7 to $12. Fat yearlings cashed at $14 to $16, lower grades $8 to $13. Old bucks sold around $4 to $4.50. Breeding ewes were scarce and in very strong demand.

FIRST TO IDENTIFY last week's Mystery Farm Picture (above) was Mrs. Edward Childers of Hamlin. The aerial view is a picture of the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Gardner, three miles northeast of Hamlin. The Gardners purchased the farm in 1917, and have made it their home since. The farm's 162 acres are devoted to the growing of cotton and feeds. The place was part of the original Swenson Land & Cattle Company holdings in this area.

B. H. Gardner Farm Was Last Week's Mystery Picture

Last week's mystery farm picture printed in The Herald was first correctly identified by Mrs. Edgar Childers of Hamlin as that of B. H. Gardner, three miles northeast of town. She will receive a one-year subscription to Your Home Town Paper.

The 162-acre farm was purchased in December, 1917, by the Gardners from the late Mr. and Mrs. Jess Beavers. Beavers had previously bought the land from Mat Rollins and Ira Borders, who had acquired it from the original holders, the Swenson Land Company estate.

The Gardners moved to the place three years after their wedding on May 27, 1914. She was the former Myrl Fletcher. The Gardners built the present home in 1947. They have six children, who are: Edward, who lives with his family at Hamlin; Harry Jr., unmarried, of Liberty; Mrs. R. P. Morrison of Hamlin; Mrs. George Bourillon of Fort Worth; Robert of Abilene; Mrs. Kendall Young of San Antonio.

The Gardners are members of the First Methodist Church. She is a member of the Friendship Home Demonstration Club, and he is active in the Farmers Cooperative Gin.

Most of the farm's 162 acres is devoted to the raising of cotton.

Plans for opening of the Hamlin Schools are being rounded into shape this week, as actual registration is scheduled next week for high school students, according to B. V. Newberry, high school principal.

The schedule of registrations has been altered some from the original schedule. The revised schedule follows: Juniors will register Monday morning, August 22, from 10:30 to 12:00 noon; sophomores will register Monday afternoon from 1:00 to 2:30; freshmen will register Monday afternoon from 2:30 to 5:00; and seniors will register Wednesday morning from 9:00 to 10:30.

Students unable to register at the times designated may register Tuesday morning, Newberry announces. Students not registered on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday will register the first day of school on August 29, beginning at 9:00 o'clock.

VISITS FROM FORT WORTH. Mrs. J. M. Steele of Fort Worth is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Etta Bond, and her son, Virgil Steele, and family and other relatives in the Hamlin area.

Gasoline Continues to Be One of Best Bargains, Says Oil Info Committeeman

Competition, research and the public's price conscious buying habits are the reasons "gasoline continues to be the family's best shopping bargain," according to George Poe, chairman of the Hamlin oil industry information committee.

Speaking as a representative of the oil industry nation-wide as well as a local businessman, Poe who is with the Poe Oil Company, said the U. S. consumer price index substantiated these facts.

"Clothing prices for example have gone up 63 per cent since 1925," he said. "House furnishings increased 65.8 per cent, and food costs rose 71.1 per cent."

"In contrast, gasoline prices have risen very little. If you discount federal, state and local taxes, over which neither oilman nor competition have any control, records show that the increase in gasoline prices since 1925—the year gasoline improvement really began—is only 7.3 per cent."

The spokesman added that, even with taxes included, the average increase in U. S. gasoline prices since 1925 is 30.8 per cent. "That is below other basic commodities and below the average for all items, which is 53.1 per cent. Gasoline taxes, incidentally, have increased 250 per cent since 1925."

Poe credited competition among the nation's 200,000 service stations and 42,000 other oil companies for keeping gasoline prices low. He pointed out that American people spend their dollars "where they can get the most or the best." This, he said, keeps their buying habits so flexible that businesses and industries must constantly raise quality and lower costs "to woo and win consumer dollars."

"At the same time," he added, "competition among oil companies to develop better products has brought about remarkable improvements in gasoline quality—two gallons of today's gasoline will do the work that required three gallons in 1925."

Poe said recently compiled American Petroleum Institute information upon which he based his statements was issued to supply answers to five questions most frequently asked about gasoline and the petroleum industry. In addition to clarifying the factors that determine gasoline prices he said this data deals with the variety of branded gasolines, adequate supply, the future of oil as affected by atomic energy and "myths about a so-called 100-mile-per-gallon carburetor."

MAYOR LOOKS OVER UNFINISHED BUSINESS—Mayor Roy Hofheinz of Houston looks over a stack of city business items that have gone unattended by the City Council as the impeachment trial of Hofheinz continued. Area Farmers Put In Soil and Water Saving Practices

Hildred Patterson, who ranches in the Cobb community, is doing a good job of range improvement, report officials of the California Creek Soil Conservation District, under whose direction the work is being conducted.

By stocking lightly and keeping stock off the pastures when field grazing is available, he has given the more desirable grasses a chance to come back. Big and little bluestem and sideoats grama are on the increase as well as vine mesquite and Texas winter grass. While leaving a cover of grass over the pasture, Patterson is keeping the water where it falls and is reducing washing and blowing. In reality he is making a deposit in Mother Nature's bank for his future use and profit.

Elmer Wedeking is constructing a stock pond to provide livestock water for an improved livestock and forage program. The tank was surveyed by the Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the California Creek Soil Conservation District.

J. M. Bowdry has recently constructed approximately six and one-half miles of terraces on his home farm.

M. T. Jones, Herman Propst and John Beauchamp have recently done a good job of stubble mulching their maize fields, leaving the stalks on the surface.

The way to peace lies through the surrender of all special privileges, by individuals and nations.

No Price Reductions On Cotton Exports for Next Year Predicted

Cotton producers and others concerned about the surplus of cotton, who had hoped that some of the storage held by the government would be sold abroad at reduced prices, found no encouragement in word from Washington this week.

The administration announced it is standing on its present cotton policy, and for the rest of the year at least will not cut export prices to spur lagging sales to foreign nations.

With giant surpluses of cotton in government hands, a number of Congress members from cotton states have been clamoring for action to increase sales abroad. There had been talk that the administration might cut the export price below the domestic price, which is higher than the world price.
